

WHAT IT IS

A page each project team opens to see where the engagement stands, what needs attention, and what to do next.

- Home

Home follows the methodology. Seven dated stages, the next control point, stage deliverables, and the actions recommended for right now.
- Weekly Status

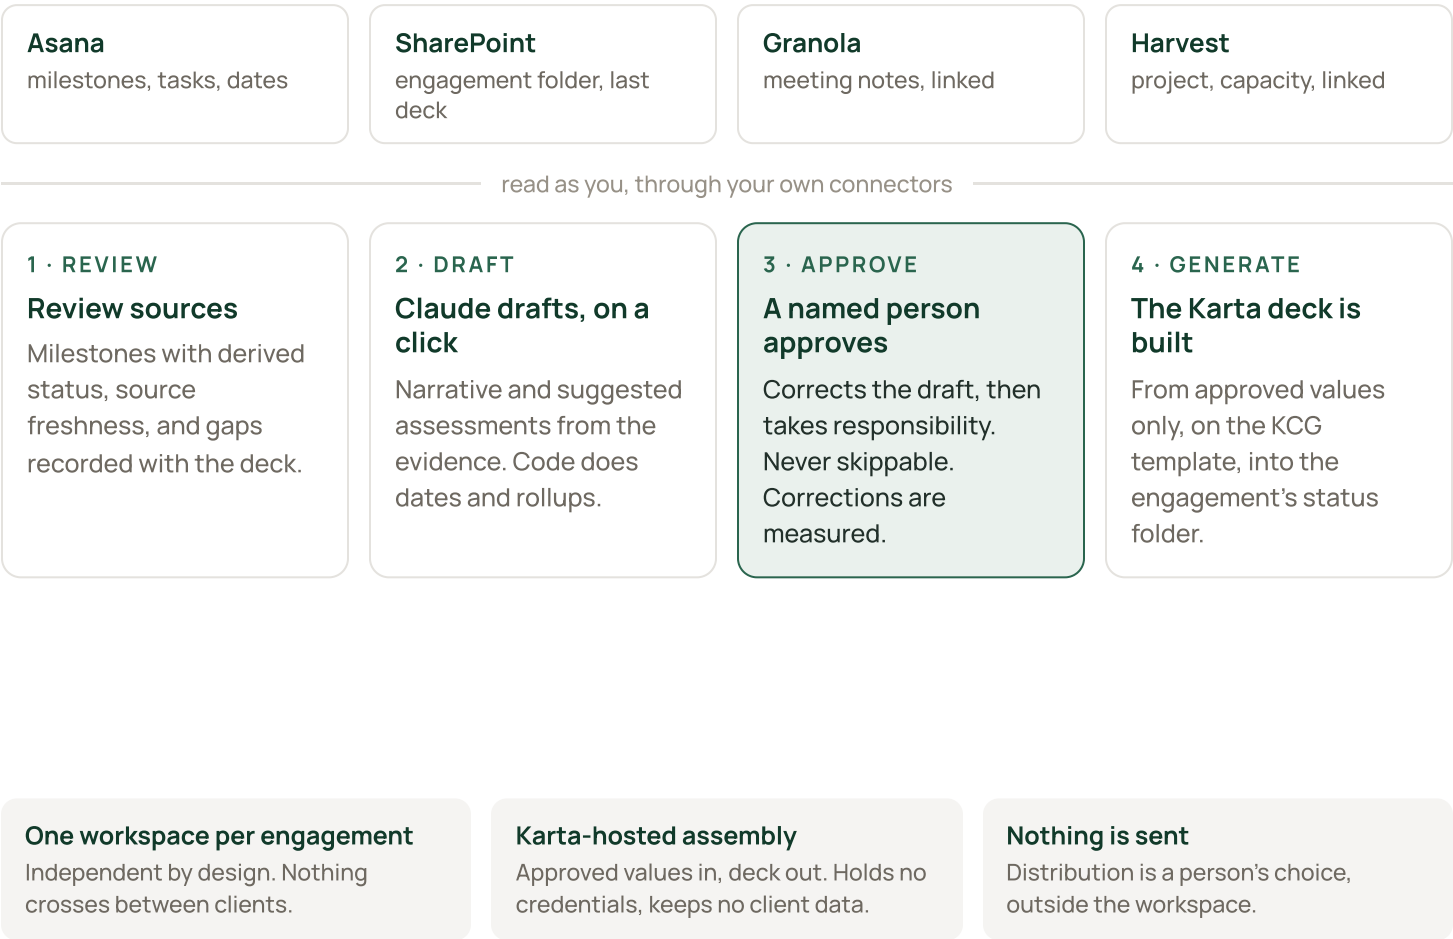

Weekly Status in four steps. Review sources, draft, approve under your name, generate the Karta deck. Status is derived in code, never guessed.
- Ask Claude

Ask Claude about the project. Answers come from the Asana project and the approved record, cite what they used, and say when evidence is missing.
- Record

A record that lasts. Decisions, approved values, and generated decks stay with the engagement, versioned and attributed.

HOW A WEEKLY STATUS GETS MADE

Every read runs as the person viewing the page

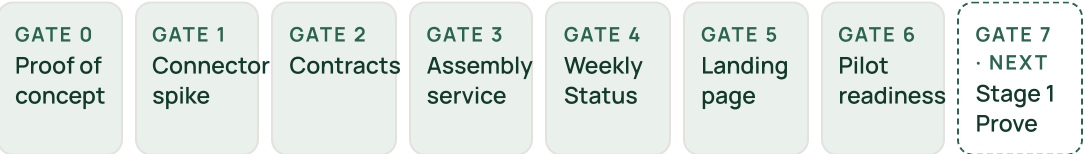

RULES THAT DO NOT BEND

- ✓ Reads as you. Every connector call uses the viewer's own authorization. No service account, no shared credential.
- ✓ The approval gate is never skipped. No client-facing value leaves without a named human correcting the draft first.
- ✓ Missing evidence is never Green. It shows as Unknown or Not assessed and blocks a Green rollout.
- ✓ Code derives, the model drafts. Dates, variance, status and the file are computed. The model writes prose and recommends.
- ✓ Sources stay the source of truth. The workspace reads Asana, SharePoint, Granola and Harvest. It never competes with them.

Measured in the pilot: time from draft to approval, drafted fields the reviewer corrected, adoption, and errors found after approval.

WHERE WE ARE · EIGHT GATES, EACH CLOSED ON EVIDENCE

Built September 4 to 8, 2026. Live today: the blank workspace template, the hosted assembly service, and the first real engagement set up in about ten minutes.

STANDING UP AN ENGAGEMENT

- 1 Publish a blank workspace and hand it to the initial owner, usually the CSE.
- 2 The owner completes setup: names, the Asana project link, the SharePoint folder link, Granola and Harvest from lists. Each is checked live.
- 3 The team connects their own sources and opens the page. Under an hour each.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT

- Stage 1 Prove. Weekly Status every week on two engagements for three to four weeks.
- Tune on evidence. The drafting prompt improves against measured corrections, not taste.
- Then expand. Sprint review, meeting capture, UAT preparation and onboarding briefs follow the same approval pattern.
